Accountability Office, 2009 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)495472646 Subject: National parks and reserves -- United States -- Finance. Excerpt: . . . To manage donations and related partnerships, officials at all levels of the Park Service - park, region, and headquarters - are involved to varying degrees. The park is the basic management unit of the Park Service, and the agency relies heavily on the judgment of park superintendents (or park managers) who oversee each park unit for most decisions affecting local park operations. In addition to managing park operations, directing program activities, and overseeing administrative functions, superintendents are responsible for developing and fostering external partnerships. Depending on the park, other park staff, such as the deputy superintendent or the chief of interpretation, may also play a significant role in managing partnerships. Superintendents report to the regional director for their respective region (see fig. 2). The Park Services seven regional offices offer administrative or specialized support not always available at local parks - regional partnership coordinators who work with local parks on partnership matters within the region, for example. Regional offices are responsible for program coordination, budget formulation, financial management, strategic planning and direction, policy oversight, and assistance in public involvement and media relations for parks and programs within the region. Additionally, they ensure consistency with national policies and priorities and coordinate with Interiors regional solicitors offices.
